LLM in Legal Practice [Top-up Award]
Manchester Metropolitan University | Programme code: LW025A

Introduction
This flexible top-up Masters programme is unique in Hong Kong and offers students a fast route to obtain a higher law degree that may enhance their job prospects. Offered in collaboration with Manchester Metropolitan University (Manchester Met), the LLM in Legal Practice is particularly suited to busy working professionals as most parts of the course can be flexibly timetabled to accommodate their work schedules.

Programme Structure
One of the great benefits of this LLM is that students automatically receive exemption from 120 of the 180 credits required for a Master’s degree because of their previous studies on either a Postgraduate Certificate in Laws (P.C.LL.) in Hong Kong or a Postgraduate Diploma in Legal Practice (PDLP) in England and Wales. For this reason, this LLM is only open to graduates of either the P.C.LL. or PDLP.

Students complete the remaining 60 credits required for a Master’s degree by researching and writing a paper on an area of professional practice in which they have particular interest or expertise.

All students follow three phases of study:
1) 8 hours of lectures on Research Methods (compulsory but not part of final mark);
2) 3,000 word Research Proposal (15% of final mark);
3) 16,000 word Final Dissertation (85% of final mark).

Tuition and Supervision
The only compulsory lectures are eight hours of face-to-face tuition in Research Methods delivered in Hong Kong by visiting Manchester Met staff through four two-hour sessions held over a period of one week.

After these classes, students follow a flexible schedule. You first submit a 3,000 word Research Proposal on the preferred topic for your Final Dissertation. After this is approved, you will be allocated a Manchester Met supervisor and also, if your topic requires additional Hong Kong legal expertise, a Hong Kong based co-supervisor.

You then begin work on your 15,000 word Final Dissertation with advice from your supervisor. Supervision arrangements will be flexible to suit busy working professionals and may be either face-to-face or via Skype, e-mail or other audio visual means. The amount of supervision will vary from student to student, but should normally include at least one supervision session a month.

Students will have access to HKU libraries and also to the Manchester Met virtual learning environment via Moodle, a resource for information and communication.

Students are normally expected to complete the programme in one year.

The medium of instruction is English.

Wide Range of Possible Research Areas
- Advocacy
- Business Associations
- Civil Litigation
- Company Law in a Global Context
- Criminal Law
- Criminal Justice
- Criminal Practice
- Employment Law
- Equity and Trusts
- Evidence
- European Union Law
- Family Law
- Human Rights Law
- Law and Society
- Medical Law and Ethics
- Property Law and Conveyancing
- Succession
- Tort

Preference will be given to applicants whose preferred topic includes at least a significant element of English law. However, we will also consider applicants interested in researching Hong Kong law in the above areas, subject to the availability of supervisors. When you apply, you should indicate which of the above areas are of most interest to you.

Note: HKU SPACE and Manchester Met cannot guarantee all of the above areas will be available every year (especially in relation to research topics involving Hong Kong law) as this depends on the availability of supervisors.

Admission Requirements
All applicants must have either a Postgraduate Certificate in Laws (P.C.LL.) awarded by a Hong Kong university or a Postgraduate Diploma in Legal Practice (PDLP) awarded by an English university (usually following completion of either a Legal Practice Course or Bar Professional Training Course).

All applicants must also have at least one year’s working experience in legal practice. We are currently only able to accept applications from those with at least one year’s experience of legal practice as a solicitor. If you have experience in legal practice in another capacity (e.g. as a barrister), please contact our programme staff to express your interest and we will let you know if the situation changes.

Course Fees
For details of the tuition fee payment to HKU SPACE and the separate registration fee payable to Manchester Metropolitan University, please refer to the attached application form or visit the course website.

Visas
This programme is intended for those having the right to live and study in Hong Kong. It is very unlikely that other applicants will be granted a visa to study this non-UGC funded programme and it is the responsibility of applicants to determine their eligibility to study.
